

L. Ramon Veal Research Seminar

NCTE Annual Convention, Baltimore MD
21-24 November 2019

Applications due: 8 January 2019
Final materials due: 21 October 2019

The L. Ramon Veal Research Seminar is an ELATE-sponsored session at the NCTE Annual Convention created to support graduate students and teacher researchers engaged in educational research. Structured as a roundtable session, the Veal Seminar provides a professional space for supportive and directed discussion between senior scholars in ELA teacher education and those entering the field.

For the Veal Seminar, participants are grouped into 2-3 person thematic roundtables. A senior scholar familiar with the thematic topic leads the roundtable, addressing participant's questions and concerns while supporting focused discussion. Prior to the convention, participants will receive their table grouping and electronic copies of their table's papers. Participants are responsible for reading each paper and considering the questions provided for review.

Application process

Deadline 1: Those interested in participating in the Veal Research Seminar must submit applications by 8 January 2019 at the following link: <http://bit.ly/Veal2019> Submissions consist of the applicant's information, title of submitted research, 50-word abstract and 500-word description. Those accepted to the Veal Seminar will be notified by 14 January 2019.

Deadline 2: Participants in the Veal Seminar will submit final materials by 21 October 2019, consisting of a research paper and responses to guiding questions. Note: Research may be at any stage of development but papers may be no more than 8 double-spaced pages, excluding references.
